Foster's Forecast.

Copyrighted 1894 by W. T. Foster.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 23.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from March 24th to 28th, and the next will reach the Pacific Coast about the 29th, cross the western mountains by close of the 30th, the great central valleys from the 31st to April 2nd, and the Eastern States about the 3rd. This will be a severe storm, and its course should be carefully watched as it crosses the continent. It will probably be at its greatest force in the Eastern States and Eastern Canada about April 3rd and 4th, and at the same time the cool waves will be at its greatest force in Middle Canada and the great central valleys.

The storm wave of April will reach the Pacific Coast about April 3rd, cross the western mountains by the close of the 4th, the great central valleys from the 5th to the 7th, and the Eastern States about the 8th. This will also be a severe storm, at its greatest force in the west of the Great Central Valleys.

The latter part of March and the first half of April will be so crowded with weather disturbances that the regular storm waves will come somewhat irregular, fair weather days will be few and far between, and severe storms may strike on any day.

The warm waves will cross the western mountains about March 29th and April 3rd, the Great Central Valleys March 31st and April 5th, and the Eastern States about April 2nd and 7th.

The cool waves will cross the western mountains about April 1st and 6th, the Great Central Valleys about the 3rd and 8th, and the Eastern States about the 5th and 10th.

For April the whole temperature of the United States will average above, while at a few locations the temperature will be normal or below. This will bring what is called an early spring in the extreme northern states and Canada. The cold February brought a late Spring in the South just as predicted in these bulletins. Farm work will probably be retarded by rains during the first part of April, east of the Missouri and near the east of the lower Mississippi.

Effie Ellsler.

The engagement of Effie Ellsler at the Opera House, Saturday evening March 31st, will occasion more than customary interest, inasmuch as it will be her first appearance in the city as "Doris," in Robert Drouet's play of that name. It is described as being a delightful drama, full of living interest and worked out with due regard to consistency and artistic symmetry. It is intense in the elements of heart interest and is brightened throughout by clean, well written, lively comedy. Miss Ellsler's creation of "Doris" is considered worthy the highest praise and it further declared that in the performance of this role she exhibits greater and more sustained power than she has ever attained before. Mr. Frank Weston assumes the role of the general Irish doctor and is one of the most entertaining figures of the play. The young Squire Kenneth is in the hands of the author, Mr. Robert Drouet, and it is needless to say, is well played. C. W. Coudock appears in the role of the clergyman, Rev. Edward Merrigood.

Seats now on sale at Steinmetz's Drug Store.

Skyward.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 24.—The Acme Dynamite Works, near Verona blew up this morning, killing five persons. About five tons of dynamite were stored in the place, and the explosion was a terrific one. The worked were completely wiped out and a house near by was wrecked. Three men and two women were killed. The women were a Mrs. Arthurs and her niece, Miss Remley, who were employed in the works as shellmakers. The bodies of the victims are horribly mangled. The explosion was felt for many miles around and caused intense excitement.
